The six-week program offers practical exposure in five specialized units: CPO Information Technology, Counter Terrorism, Investigation Branch Punjab, Traffic Police Punjab, and Lahore District Investigation. This initiative bridges academic learning with real-world experience in policing, investigation, and modern law enforcement practices.

Students Gain Industry Exposure at Devsinc

Connecting classroom learning with the skills and practices of the technology industry.

The Industrial Liaison Office organized a visit to Devsinc on September 15, 2026, allowing students to experience a professional software development environment. Students engaged with industry professionals, learning about IT practices, workplace culture, and career opportunities, thus bridging classroom learning with industry expectations. Special thanks were given to Umair Anjum Humayoun, the Devsinc Campus Ambassador, for facilitating the visit.

Are We Still Thinking?

LGU Students Question AI's Impact!

AI should enhance human intelligence, not replace our ability to think, question, create, and make informed decisions.

LGU students presented "The Last Human Question: Are We Still Thinking?", a drama exploring AI's impact on human thought and creativity. It raised concerns about whether reliance on AI diminishes our willingness to think independently. The key message emphasized that AI should enhance, not replace, human intelligence. Organized by Zaryab Malik, the event included a concluding speech and was attended by the Vice Chancellor, faculty, and students, who praised the students' creativity and message.
